DETAILED ACTION

Specification

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: applicant states “formed on the position lower (i.e. the side of the wider diameter portion of the deflection yoke)”, on page 12, lines 4-5, then “formed in the upper position (the position towards the wider diameter portion side of the deflection yoke)” on lines 18-19, then again “bottom portion side (i.e. towards the direction of wider diameter portion of the deflection yoke” on lines 25-26, etc. Both the lower and upper positions cannot be directed towards the wider diameter portion of the deflection yoke. Examiner, in conjunction with the rest of the specification and the drawings, has figured that applicant meant only that the lower portion was directed toward the wider diameter part of the deflection yoke. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Art Unit: 2875

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Applicant's admitted prior art. .

Regarding claims 1, admitted prior art discloses a deflection yoke apparatus comprising a neck portion (103) in a cylindrical shape formed on a sub-terminal portion of a funnel shaped separator (1b) having a narrower diameter portion and a wider diameter portion (see fig. 9), a magnetic ring means (10,11) rotatably mounted on said neck portion, a holding portion means (12,13) having a holding portion for holding magnetic ring, and a protrusion means (14) formed on neck having a first slope surface decline to the outer direction from said narrower diameter portion side to said wider diameter portion side of neck, wherein magnetic ring means contacts the slope surface before contacting said holding portion when ring is inserted to neck from narrower diameter portion side, and the protrusion means leads said magnetic ring to said holding portion.

Regarding claim 2, holding portion means (12, 13) has a second slope surface (13a) declining to the outer direction from said narrower diameter portion side to said wider diameter portion side of said neck portion, and said first slope surface of said protrusion means (14) leads said magnetic ring means to said second slope surface (13a) of said holding portion means (12, 13).

Regarding claim 3, applicant's admitted prior art discloses a deflection yoke apparatus comprising a neck portion (103) having a cylindrical shape and formed on a subterminal portion of a funnel shaped separator (1b), with a narrower diameter portion and a wider diameter portion, first protrusion means (14) formed on said neck portion, clamp band means (5) having a hole (5a), magnetic ring means (10,11) rotatably mounted on said wider diameter portion side of said neck portion than the position of said clamp band being attached to said neck, holding portion means (12) for holding said magnetic rings from narrower portion side, and a second protrusion means (13) having a slope surface (13a) decline to the outer direction from said narrower diameter portion side to said wider diameter portion side of said neck portion and formed on said neck portion between said first protrusion (14) and said holding portion (12) wherein said magnetic ring means being inserted to said neck portion contacts said slope surface before contacting said holding portion.
